“CBI professionals know what it’s like to work in a tough manufacturing environment. So they’re able to define leadership in a way that makes sense for our employees – in the context of their environment. They deliver programs that continually build our people’s skills – while sharing knowledge that can’t be found in books. From my single point of contact, who creates training solutions that make sense for us, to the facilitators, who do much more than teach skills, CBI delivers exactly what we need.”
