“People often approach disaster planning in isolation, without considering how all the pieces fit together. That’s why we engaged CBI – to provide the interdisciplinary perspective needed to create a unified emergency plan. Using their decades of experience, CBI assessed our processes, identified missing pieces from our plan and advised how to shift roles to maximize collaboration and cooperation with multiple responders. They also created custom exercises for our professional development days and walked each of our schools through the NIMS compliant plan. Ultimately, they made a good emergency plan much better.”
